INDUSTRY EXPERT

Ali Rabah
Business Development Manager
Titan Environmental

Ali Rabah is a Business Development Manager for Eastern Canada with Titan, where he supports municipalities, engineers, owners, and contractors with technical guidance across design, estimating, installation planning, and project execution for critical infrastructure applications.

He holds a Bachelor of Mechanical Engineering and brings more than 17 years of experience in technical sales, field engineering, and management. His background combines strong technical expertise with practical field insight and a deep understanding of the wastewater sector.

In previous roles, he contributed to hundreds of Canadian projects by developing specifications, delivering educational seminars, supporting contractors with installation guidance, and helping project teams identify practical, cost-effective solutions. At Titan, he leverages this experience to support concrete protection and containment systems, serving as a trusted resource for wastewater professionals across Ontario and Eastern Canada.
